4. ‘The plantation workers in Assam had their own understanding of Mahatma Gandhi and the notion of Swaraj.’ Support the statement with arguments.
   Answer:
   The plantation workers in Assam had their own understanding of Mahatma Gandhi and the notion of Swaraj. This statement can be supported by the following arguments.
   - For plantation workers in Assam, freedom meant right to move freely in and out of the confined space in which they were enclosed, and to retain a link with the native village.
   - When they heard of the Non-Cooperation Movement thousands of workers left the plantations and headed home.
   - They believed that Gandhi Raj meant that they would be given land in their own villages. However, due to steamer and railway strike, thousands were stranded on the way.

5. Why did different social groups join the Civil Disobedience Movement. Explain.
   Answer:
   Different social groups joined the Civil Disobedience Movement. Three of them are listed below.
Rich peasant communities like Patidars of Gujarat and Jats of Uttar Pradesh – joined the movement because, being producers of commercial crops, they were hard-hit by depression and falling prices. For them, Swaraj meant struggle against high revenues.

Poor peasants joined the struggle because they found it difficult to pay the rent. They wanted the unpaid rent to be remitted.

Rich business classes were against colonial policies which restricted trade. They joined the movement because they wanted protection against import of foreign goods. They thought that Swaraj would cancel colonial restrictions and trade would flourish without constraints.

6. “The Congress was reluctant to include the demands of industrial workers in its programme of struggle.” Analyze the reasons.
   Answer:
   - Congress wanted to include the demands of the masses as a whole and not a particular group or class.
   - If the demand of the workers were included, then industrialists would get offended. The industrialists were supporting the Congress financially. The Congress did not want to alienate the industrialists and create anti-imperialist feelings.
   - A big portion of the Congress membership and funding came from industrialists and small businessmen.

   Answer:
   The Non-Cooperation Movement slowed down in the cities for various reasons.
   - Khadi cloth was often more expensive than mass-produced mill cloth and poor people could not afford to buy it. So people could not boycott mill cloth for very long.
   - Similarly boycotting British institutions also posed a problem as there were no alternative national institutions to fulfil the educational needs.
   - The students and teachers trickled to government schools. The lawyers joined government courts.
   With all these, the enthusiasm of people in the cities lost its force.

8. Why did Mahatma Gandhi decide to withdraw the Non-Cooperation Movement in February 1922? Explain the reasons.
   Answer:
   Gandhi withdrew the Non-Cooperation Movement in February 1922 because of the following reasons.
   - Gandhi felt the movement was turning violent at many places and the satyagrahis needed to be properly trained before they would be ready for the mass struggle.
   - Within the Congress some leaders were by now tired of mass struggles and wanted to participate in the elections to the provincial councils set up after the Government of India Act 1919.
   - The final blow however came after the violent incident in Chauri Chaura in 1922 when a violent mob burnt a police station killing many policemen. Immediately after that, Gandhi called off the Non-Cooperation Movement.

9. Describe the main features of ‘Poona Pact’.
   Answer:
   At the second Round Table conference, Dr BR Ambedkar demanded separate electorates for dalits. When the British conceded Dr Ambedkar’s demand, Gandhi, who was opposed to this, went on a fast unto death. He believed that separate electorates for dalits would slow down the process of their integration into society. Ambedkar ultimately accepted Gandhi’s position by signing a pact in 1932, known as the Poona Pact. The Poona Pact gave the depressed classes reserved seats in the provincial and legislative councils but they were to be voted by general electorate.

10. How did Salt March become an effective tool of resistance against colonialism? Explain.
Answer:
Salt became an effective tool of resistance against colonialism because of the following reasons:
- Gandhiji found in salt a powerful bond that would unite the nations as it – was consumed by all rich and poor alike.
- Gandhiji’s letter to Viceroy Irwin stated eleven demands. Most of them were of general interest but the most stirring was to abolish the salt tax imposed by the colonial government.

37. How had Non-Cooperation Movement spread to the countryside? Explain.
Answer: Non-Cooperation Movement began in December 1920. It spread to the countryside in the following ways.
• The movement started with the participation of middle-class in the cities. Thousands of students left the government-controlled schools and colleges, teachers resigned and lawyers gave up their practice. It was to be a nonviolent movement.
• In Awadh, peasants were led by Baba Ramchandra. Here, the movement was against talukdars, who charged high rents and peasants had to do beggar.
• The peasant movement demanded reduction of revenue and abolition of beggar. By the end of 1920, Jawaharlal Nehru, Baba Ramchandra and others had formed Oudh Kisan Sabha. So after the beginning of the Non-Cooperation Movement, Congress wanted to integrate the Awadh peasants struggle into a wider struggle.
• Tribal peasants interpreted the message of Gandhiji and idea of swaraj in their own way. In Gudem Hills in Andhra Pradesh, a militant guerrilla movement was organised against colonial oppression under the leadership of Alluri Sitaram Raju. He was inspired by the Non-Cooperation Movement.
• The Gudem rebels attacked police stations, attempted to kill British officials and carried on guerrilla warfare for achieving swaraj.
• The movement also spread among the plantation workers in Assam. They were not permitted to leave the tea gardens without permission. (any five)

38. How did the Non-Cooperation Movement spread in cities across the country? Explain its effects on the economic front.
Answer:
• The Non-Cooperation Movement started with middle-class participation in the cities. Thousands of students left government-controlled schools and colleges, the teachers resigned and the lawyers gave up their lucrative practices.
The council elections were boycotted in most provinces. Shops selling foreign goods were picketed and foreign goods boycotted. The effects of non-cooperation on the economic front were extensive.

Boycotting of foreign goods, liquor and clothes hit the colonial economy. Value of foreign goods dropped. The import of foreign cloth dropped significantly between 1921 and 1922.

At many places merchants and traders refused to trade in foreign goods or finance foreign trade.

As the movement spread, people began to discard imported clothes and started to wear khadi and other homemade clothes. This promoted Indian textile mills and the production of handloom went up.

39. Describe the incident and impact of the Jallianwalla Bagh.
   Answer:
   On 13 April, a crowd of villagers gathered in an enclosed ground of Jallianwalla Bagh near Amritsar. These people came there to attend a fair and were unaware of the current political situation or about the martial law imposed by the military governor General Dyer. Dyer entered the ground, blocked the exit points and opened fire on the innocent crowd, killing hundreds. This incident is referred to as the Jallianwalla Bagh massacre. General Dyer declared that his main aim was to produce a moral effect and to create a feeling of terror and awe in the mind of the satyagrahis. This incident proved to be a turning point in the Indian national movement. As the news of Jallianwalla Bagh massacre spread, crowds took to streets in many towns in North India. There were strikes and clashes with police and attacks on government buildings. The government responded with brutal repression. Innocent people were humiliated and terrorised. People were flogged and villages were burnt for no reason. The national leaders were shocked at this inhumane treatment with fellow Indians and pledged to protest. Mahatma Gandhi now felt the need to launch a more broad-based movement in India. Khilafat and Non-Cooperation Movements were started after a few months. The main aim of these movements was to protest against Jallianwalla Bagh incident and demand swaraj.

40. Describe the developments which led to the launching of Non-Cooperation Movement.
   Answer: The developments that led to the launching of Non-Cooperation Movements were as follows.
   - In 1916, Gandhiji travelled to Champaran in Bihar to inspire peasants to struggle against the oppressive plantation system.
   - In 1917, he organised satyagraha to support the peasants of Kheda in Gujarat.
   - In 1918, he organised satyagraha for cotton mill workers in Ahmedabad.
   - In 1919, nationwide satyagraha was launched against Rowlatt Act.
   - Passing of the Rowlatt Act leading to unrest among Indians and arrest of prominent leaders made Gandhiji launch the Non-Cooperation Movement.

41. Describe the significance of the Civil Disobedience Movement in the freedom Struggle of India.
   Answer: The Civil Disobedience Movement was unique and significant in many ways.
   - Unlike the Non-Cooperation Movement, the satyagrahis in the movement broke various colonial laws.
   - This was a more successful and widespread mass movement. Thousands of people in different parts of the country broke salt law, manufactured salt and demonstrated in front of government offices and factories.
   - The peasants refused to pay revenue and chaukidari taxes. Officials in villages resigned and forest people violated forest laws.
In this movement, the satyagrahis displayed immense courage and sincerity. Despite the oppression of colonial government, they did not resort to violence and bravely courted arrests. All Congress leaders were arrested but this could not break the morale of the people.

Another significant feature of the movement was the increased participation of women. Thousands of women came out of their comfortable life at home to participate in the mass movement. They demonstrated courage and determination, broke salt laws and manufactured salt, picketed shops selling foreign goods and organised various other activities. In the Civil Disobedience Movement, the business and industrial class also supported the national leaders by financial assistance and participated in Khadi movement.

42. How could non-cooperation become a movement? Explain with examples.

Answer: Most of the movements are issue-specific movements that seek to achieve a single objective within a limited time frame. The main issue was to support Khilafat, as well as swaraj. Gandhiji proposed that the movement should start in stages. It should begin with the surrender of titles, boycott of civil services, army, police courts and legislative councils, schools and foreign goods. The Non-cooperation Khilafat Movement began in January 1921. The movement started with middle class participation in the cities. Thousands of students left schools and colleges, lawyers gave up their practice. Council elections were boycotted in most provinces. Non-Cooperation had all the characteristics of a movement.

- It had a specific issue i.e. it was started in support of Khilafat and Swaraj.
- It could not achieve its direct objective. However, it was very successful on the economic front. The import of foreign cloth halved between 1921-1922 and its value dropped from 102 crore to 57 crore.
- It was short lived. Gandhiji called a halt to the Non-Cooperation Movement after the Chauri-Chaura incident when police station was set on fire in 1922.
- Non-Cooperation also had a clear cut leadership. It was organised under the leadership of Gandhiji.

43. How did different social groups conceive the idea of Non-cooperation? Explain with examples.

Answer:
- In Awadh, peasants were led by Baba Ramchandra, a sanyasi who had earlier been to Fiji as indentured labourer. Here, the movement was against talukdars and landlords who demanded very high rents, and cesses from the peasants. They had to perform beggar in landlords farms. They had no right over leased land. When the Non-Cooperation Movement started, the houses of talukdars and landlords were looted. In many place local leaders told the peasants that Gandhiji had said no taxes were to be paid and land was to be redistributed among the peasants.
- Tribal peasants of Andhra Pradesh interpreted the message of Gandhiji in a different way. They were led by Alluri Sitaram Raju. The government had closed large forest areas, preventing the tribals from entering forest to gaze their cattle. They were dependent on forests for food, fuel and trails. The militant movement had begun to resist repressive measures of the colonisers. The tribals became violent and attacked police stations.
- For plantation workers in Assam, Swaraj had a very different notion. For them freedom meant to move in and out of the confined place. The workers believed that Gandhi raj was coming and everyone would be given land in their village. So, they defied the authorities, left the plantations and headed home.

44. Explain the impact of Jallianwallah Bagh incident on the people.

Answer:
- As the news of the Jallianwallah Bagh spread, the crowds took to streets in many towns of North India.
- There were strikes, clashes with the police and attack on government buildings.
The government reciprocated with brutal repression to terrorise the people.
Satyagrahis were forced to rub their noses on the ground, crawl on the streets and do salaam to all officers.
People were flogged and villages around Gujranwala in Punjab (now in Pakistan) were bombed.

45. Explain the effects of Non-Cooperation Movement on the economic front.

Answer: The effects of the Non-cooperation Movement on the economic front were
- The import of foreign cloth halved between 1921 and 1922 and its value dropped from 102 crores to 57 crores.
- Foreign goods were boycotted, liquor shops picketed and foreign cloth burnt in huge bonfires.
- In many places traders and merchants refused to trade in foreign goods or finance foreign goods.
- As the boycott movement spread people refused to wear imported clothes and wore only Indian ones.
- Production of Indian textiles and handlooms went up.

46. How did peasants of Awadh used different methods to achieve their goal? Explain.

Answer:
The peasants of Awadh were led by Baba Ramchandra. The following methods were used to achieve their goals:
- They raised their demand for reduction of revenue, abolition of begar and security of land tenure. They took to social boycott of oppressive landlords.
- In many places, the panchayats organised nai-dhobi bands to deprive the landlords of basic services of barber and washermen.
- Oudh Kisan Sabha was set up with more than 300 branches in the villages around Awadh.

47. ‘Dalit participation was limited in the Civil Disobedience Movement’. Examine the statement.

Answer:
- Dalit participation was limited in Civil Disobedience Movement because the Congress did not want to offend to ‘Sanatanis’ the upper caste Hindus by including the Dalits.
- The dalits believed that political empowerment would solve all the problems, of their social disabilities.
- Many dalit leaders were keen on a different political solution to their problems. They organised themselves and demanded reserved seats in educational institutions and separate electorate that would choose dalit members for councils.
- Ambedkar had clashed with Gandhiji at Second Round Table Conference for demanding separate electorate for dalits. Gandhiji viewed this as slowing down the process of unity and their integration into society.
- The dalits continued to be apprehensive of Congress led movements because it was dominated by conservative high class Hindus. So the dalit participation in the Civil Disobedience Movement was limited, particularly in Maharashtra and Nagpur region where their organisation was strong.

48. Why did Gandhiji start the ‘Civil Disobedience Movement’? Explain any four features of Civil Disobedience Movement.

Answer: Gandhiji started the Civil Disobedience Movement. On 31 January 1930, he sent a letter to Viceroy Irwin, stating eleven demands. The most stirring demand was to abolish salt tax. Salt is the commodity consumed by all, both rich and poor. It is one of the most essential item of food. The tax on salt and its monopoly over production revealed the oppressive face of British government. Mahatma Gandhi started his historic march from Sabarmati Ashram. On 6 April, he reached Dandi and violated the law, manufacturing salt by boiling sea water. This was the beginning of the Civil Disobedience Movement. Main features of the Civil Disobedience Movement are:

- First successful mass movement.
- People from all sections participated in the Movement.
- Women for the first time left their homes and joined the movement.
- For the first time the movement was launched with the goal of Purna Swaraj.

49. How did the people and the colonial government react to the Civil Disobedience Movement? Explain.
Answer: The people reacted differently to the Civil Disobedience Movement.
- Thousands of people broke colonial laws and salt laws, manufactured salt and demonstrated in front of government owned salt factories.
- Foreign cloth was boycotted, liquor shops were picketed. Peasants refused to pay taxes, revenue and chowkidari taxes. In many places people violated forest laws, going into reserved forests to collect wood and graze cattle.
- In Peshwar, the angry crowd demonstrated in streets, facing armoured cars and police firing.
- The colonial government reacted ruthlessly. Worked by the popularity of the movement, the government arrested eminent leaders. It led to violent clashes.
- Peaceful satyagrahis were arrested, people were beaten and 1,00,000 were arrested. Congress was declared illegal. Gandhiji signed the Gandhi-Irwin Pact and agreed to attend the Second Round Table Conference in London.

50. Explain the reactions of the Indian people against the Rowlatt Act passed through the Imperial Legislative Council in 1919.
Answer: The Rowlatt Act gave enormous powers to the government to repress political activities and allowed detention of political prisoners without trial for two years.
- Indians reacted against this unreasonable act, Gandhiji wanted a non-violent civil disobedience against the unjust law and decided to start a hartal on 6th April 1919.
- Rallies were organised in various cities.
- People organised hartals all over the country in protest of the Rowlatt Act and the shops were shut down.
- Workers went on strike in railway workshops.

51. Who was Alluri Sitaram Raju? Explain his role in inspiring the rebels with Gandhiji’s ideas.
Answer: Alluri Sitaram Raju led the peasant rebellion in the Gudem Hills of Andhra Pradesh. He became popular because he claimed that he had special powers of astrological predictions and the power to heal people. He could survive bullet shots. In Gudem Hills of Andhra Pradesh, a militant guerrilla movement spread in early 1920s. The main aim of the movement was to protest against colonial laws. The government had closed forest areas for grazing of cattle and collection of firewood or fruits. Government compelled them to work free for road building (begar). The people revolted under Alluri Sitaram Raju. He spoke about the greatness of Gandhiji and he was inspired by Non-Cooperation Movement. The people were persuaded to wear Khadi and give up drinking alcohol. He believed India will become independent by force and not by non-violence. The Gudem rebels attacked police stations and attempted to kill British officials.

52. Describe the actions taken by the British administration against the nationalists who opposed the Act.
Answer: The following steps were taken by British administration against the nationalists who opposed the Act.
- The British administrators decided to clamp down upon the nationalists because they feared that lines of communication such as railways and telegraphs would be disrupted. They adopted the following methods.
• Local leaders were picked from Amritsar.
• Mahatma Gandhi was barred from entering Delhi.
• On 10 April police fired upon peaceful, procession which led to widespread attacks on banks, post offices and railways stations.
• Martial law was imposed. General Dyer took charge in Amritsar.

53. Explain the role played by tribal peasants in the Gudem Hills of Andhra Pradesh during the Non Cooperation Movement.
Answer: The tribal peasants of Gudem Hills of Andhra Pradesh understood the message of Gandhiji and idea of Swaraj in a different way. In Gudem Hills, as in other parts, the tribal peasants were prevented from entering the forest areas, to graze their cattle or to collect fuelwood and fruits. They were also forced to do beggar. A militant guerrilla movement had spread in the 1920s. The tribal peasants were deprived of their livelihood and their traditional rights were denied. The person who led them was Alluri Sitaram Raju. He was inspired by Gandhiji, persuaded people to wear khadi and give up drinking. He also believed India will become free with the use of force and not non-violence. People attacked police stations, attempted to kill British officials and carried out guerrilla warfare.

54. Examine the role of industrial working class in the Civil Disobedience Movement.
Answer:
• When the Civil Disobedience Movement started, the industrial working class did not participate in large number except in the Nagpur region.
• As the industrialists gave financial assistance and came closer to the Congress, the workers did not participate in large number.
• Some workers did participate in the movement. They boycotted foreign goods. They asked for higher wages and better working conditions. They participated in protest rallies and boycott campaigns in Chotanagpur region.
• Gandhiji did not support the demands of industrial workers as it would have alienated the business classes.
• Gandhiji was reluctant to support the industrial working class as it would have divided the anti-imperialist forces.

55. How did Gandhiji try to integrate the Depressed Classes into society? Explain any three points.
Answer: Gandhiji tried to integrate the Depressed Classes into society in the following ways:
• He organised Satyagraha to secure entry into temples for them and access to public wells, tanks, roads and schools.
• He himself cleaned toilets to dignify the work of the untouchables.
• He persuaded the upper classes to change their attitude towards the depressed classes and give up untouchability.
• When the British conceded to demand of Dr BR Ambedkar to have separate electorates for the depressed classes, Gandhiji went on a fast unto death as he believed that a separate electorate for Dalits would slow down the process of their integration into society.

56. How did BR Ambedkar try to improve the conditions of the Depressed Classes? Explain any three points.
Answer:
BR Ambedkar tried to improve the conditions of the Depressed Classes in the following ways:
• In 1930, Dr. BR Ambedkar organised the Dalits (the untouchables) into an organisation called the Depressed Classes Association, now known as scheduled caste.
• His ideas regarding depressed class deferred from that of Mahatma Gandhi. He wanted separate electorates for Dalits.
• Whilst at Round Table Conference in London he demanded separate electorates for Dalits and the British coloniser conceded his demand. This caused Mahatma Gandhi to fast unto the death because he believed that separate electorate for the Dalits would slow down the process of their integration into the main society.
• He signed the Poona Pact with Gandhi ji and the Congress giving the opportunities to depress to secure reserved seat for Dalits in the provincial and Central Legislative Council to be voted in general election.

57. Explain any three causes that led the tribals to revolt in the Gudem Hills of Andhra Pradesh.
Answer: The tribal peasants of Gudem Hill in Andhra Pradesh fought for swaraj and revolted against the British. The following were the causes that led the tribals to the revolt in the Gudem Hills of Andhra Pradesh:
• The colonial government had closed large forest areas preventing the tribals from entering the forest to graze their cattle and felt that their traditional rights were being taken away.
• The tribal who were strongly dependent on the forests for food, fruits and fuel were prevented to carry out these activities affecting their livelihood which enraged them.
• The government was forcing the peasants of the Gudem Hill to carry out begar (unpaid work) for the building of roads.
• A militant movement had begun to resist the repressive measures of the colonisers. The tribals here became violent and attacked police station and attempted to kill the British.

58. Explain four points about Gandhiji’s idea of ‘satyagraha’.
Answer:
Gandhiji had carried out successful satyagraha in South Africa against the racist regime.
• According to him satyagraha was not a passive resistance but it called for intensive activity.
• It suggested that if the struggle was against injustice, physical force is not necessary to fight the oppressor. Non-violence could also win the battle.
• Only through the power of truth and non-violence, an appeal was made to the conscience of the oppressor.
• Persuasion, not force, would make the oppressor realise the truth. This dharma of non-violence and truth united people against the oppressor and made them realise the truth.

59. Why did the rich peasants take part in the Civil Disobedience Movement? Give four reasons.
Answer:
Among the different social groups which participated in the Civil Disobedience Movement the rich peasants also had their ideals and perceptions of Swaraj which encouraged them to join the movement.
• Rich peasants like Patidars of Gujarat and Jats in Uttar Pradesh who were producers of commercial crops were hard hit by depression and falling prices.
• As their cash income reduced, they were unable to pay government revenue.
• The government refused to reduce revenue. So, the rich peasants became enthusiastic supporter of the Civil Disobedience Movement to free them from the situation.
